Welcome to Q Research General

We are researchers who deal in open-source information, reasoned argument, and dank memes. We do battle in the sphere of ideas and ideas only. We neither need nor condone the use of force in our work here.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

>>25039656 @FBIDirectorKash Memphis had the highest per-capita homicide rate in America. We said we were going to do something about it. We did. → Operation Viper deployed across 25+ major cities → Gang members and illegal firearms taken off the streets → Missing children who had been gone for years located → In Philadelphia, the Weymouth Street gang was dismantled and an entire city block cleared of that criminal network. This isn’t about temporary sweeps or photo ops. We collect the intelligence, build the cases, execute the warrants, seize the guns, dismantle the gangs, and attack violent crime at its root. -DKP🇺🇸

>>25039697 @FBIDirectorKash 11,100 CHILDREN FOUND. Let that number sink in. In just the last 18 months, this FBI has helped locate 11,100 missing children --- a 21% INCREASE. Senator Blackburn noted that under the Biden administration, north of 300,000 children could not be found. Every number represents a child. A family. A life that matters. -DKP🇺🇸

The EMV chip in all debit and credit cards have the capability of amplifying weaponized pulsed microwave radiation. This is inherent by Design. These EMV chips are small computers. There are hidden programs running within the EMV chip that give it the secret capability of amplifying weaponized pulsed microwave radiation becoming a weapon against the end user. While it is on your person and you are mobile. It can attack you. I learned that hard lesson today.

Calling my work "poo" but can't refute it; Why?

The architect himself likened the plaza courtyard to a "Mecca" of peace, with the revolving center in the place of Kaaba just cause the WTC plaza was flat is not the architect muzzie influences.

Architect Minoru Yamasaki (who designed the Twin Towers and the plaza fountains) deliberately modeled the circular ring of fountains around the sphere to evoke the Grand Mosque of Mecca (Masjid al-Haram), with the rotating sphere itself standing in the exact central position of the Kaaba. This made the whole installation a modern, abstract reference to the Islamic ritual of Tawaf --- the counterclockwise circumambulation (whirling/walking in circles) that pilgrims perform around the Kaaba during the Hajj.

No, it's because the architect said it was.

You know when they say 'slide' on something like this, that they haven't taken their shill lessons seriously enough.

The cube at Mecca, the Kaaba is surrounded by Towers; didn't realize that.

Where is the Kabaa?

SA

Koenig himself described the sphere as a counterpoint to the towers and a symbol of “world peace through world trade,” but the plaza’s overall fountain layout (the “symbolic setting in the middle of the plaza” you recalled) was intentionally layered with this Mecca/Kaaba parallel by Yamasaki. Contemporary accounts and art-historical sources explicitly note the sphere as “standing in place of the Kaaba” within the Mecca-inspired fountain ring.

Notice the Turrets around the Kaaba; Like the Turret on the One World Trade (Perps lied (again) and did another bait and switch, told us it would be known as the 'Freedom Tower' no it wouldn't be)

Turrets surround Kaaba

Why do you think all the European leaders are letting violentt arabs invade their Countries?

Concerning AI, when, in the History of Business, did anyone see the Leaders of an Industry call for Regulation that, if strongly implemented, will drive them into oblivion and bankruptcy? AI taking over the World, destroying Humanity, and all other things bad, is a HOAX, no different from RUSSIA, RUSSIA, RUSSIA --- UKRAINE, UKRAINE, UKRAINE — IMPEACHMENT HOAX #1 — IMPEACHMENT HOAX #2 — and all of the other HOAXES and SCAMS that America was forced to endure through the Destructionists' and Deviants' foul play and illegal conduct. President Xi, of China, just announced that China will be doing absolutely nothing to stand in the way of AI, or its future. Google has recently stated that they want to build a massive Plant in Finland, all because they are finding permitting too difficult in the United States. I am not happy about this, and want them to change their thinking. AI, and Data Centers, will be the Greatest Economic Development Engine in History — Bigger than Oil, Gold, Diamonds, or even the Internet. It will not be stopped by brilliantly run Destructive Forces during the Term of President DONALD J. TRUMP!

Breaking: Michael Burry saysOpenAI and Anthropic are faking the AI warningsdue to slow growth ahead of IPOs

Below are his reasonings:

1. LLMs are not AI and won't be AGI. There is nothing AI to slow down.

2. Competition is coming up fast, slowing benefits incumbents.

3. IPOs need hype & puffery; "we are so awesome it could become dangerous" is hype & puffery

4. Cover for real uncontrollable slowing growth as IPOs look to be pushed out

Breaking: Michael Burry says AI's biggest customers are "tokenmaxxing"

The pyramid of customers who become competitors:

Tier 1: frontier model builders: OpenAI, Anthropic, Google, Microsoft, Meta, xAI. 7 to 10 companies

Tier 2: vertical LLM builders: Salesforce, ServiceNow, SAP, Bloomberg, IBM. 30 to 50 companies

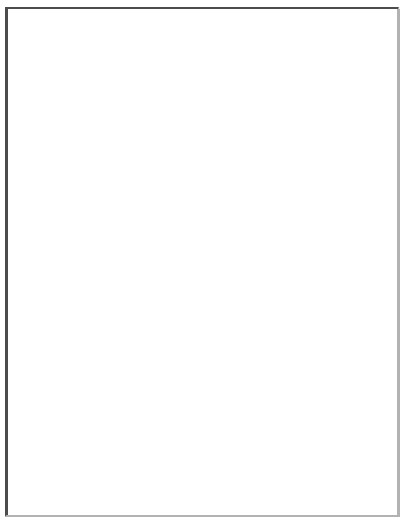

Tier 3: Fortune 500 building proprietary AI: JPMorgan, UnitedHealth, Walmart, CVS. 200 to 500 companies

Tier 4: true pure consumers: mid-market companies and traditional manufacturers. Fewer companies remain as they climb the pyramid, per Burry's SubStack

Nvidia CEO Huang attending Trump’s state dinner for China’s Xi: Source

PUBLISHED TUE, SEP 15 20266:06 PM EDT

KEY POINTS

• Nvidia CEO Jensen Huang is expected to attend President Donald Trump’s state dinner next week for Chinese President Xi Jinping.

• Huang’s planned attendance at the high-profile event is the latest sign of his alliance with Trump.

• Huang appeared to side with Trump as the president pushed back on tech CEOs’ warnings about the risks of rapid AI advancement.

Nvidia

CEO Jensen Huang is expected to attend a state dinner for Xi Jinping when the Chinese leader travels to Washington to meet with President Donald Trumpnext week, a person familiar with the matter told CNBC on Tuesday.

The person spoke on condition of anonymity to discuss the private guest list.

Huang’s planned attendance at the high-profile event is the latest sign of his alliance with Trump.Those ties appeared stronger than ever this week, as the two men pushed back against other tech CEOs who have issued dire warnings about the risks posed by rapid AI advancement.

AI is expected to be a main topic of discussion when Xi meets with Trump. Huang was one of a select group of CEOs who traveled to China with Trump earlier this year.

It was not immediately clear who else has been invited to the state dinner.

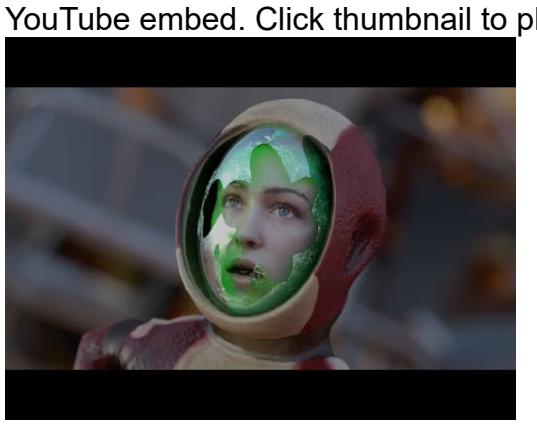

A White House official told CNBC, “President Trump has invited several great American business leaders to his dinner with President Xi because he will always prioritize making good deals for our country.”

The White race is down to 8% of the world's population, from 28% since 911, and 36% in 1900. All the goofiness on this board and the vain glorious show boating, doesn't seem to be working. It is time to put the US Military out on the streets to replace all law enforcement, and have them work with local patriots to clean house of those that pushed the cabal agenda to destroy our country and genocide our people. There is no other way and time is a luxury that we wasted playing: you got me, no you didn't. In the last 10 years we watched a third of the population attack another third, while one third watched in silence. It is not just the elite handlers, but their little cronies that did most of the damage, and they must be dealt with or this will never end because the elite will always be replaced by another bloodline member.

How one EU state became an accessory to CIA torture 1/4

Just outside a EU country capital, the agency ran a black site with the knowledge and assistance of the local authorities

(No wonder why Russia hates the CIA!)

Published 15 Sep, 2026 18:11 |

=Throughout the summer, a major scandal has been brewing in Lithuania. In late July, the country suffered a landmark defeat in the European Court of Human Rights in a case brought by Abd al-Rahim al-Nashiri, a Saudi national held in secret detention and brutally tortured for four years in CIA black sites around the world -- including Lithuania. While Western governments and news outlets have ignored the judgement, the ECHR's conclusions produced bitter political division locally, with the opposition calling for a new investigation into the CIA's use and abuse of the country during the US-led 'War on Terror'.

Lithuania's ruling coalition, in keeping with previous governments, is resistant to any further damaging light being shed on their territory hosting criminal operations of American intelligence for many years in total secret, with perpetrators of horrendous torture insulated from any legal repercussions or professional consequence. Their resistance is understandable. On top of not wanting to offend their colossal US ally, Lithuania's ruling elites are keen to conceal from the local population, and the world, how their 'independence' under Western hegemony comes with unseen strings attached. When those strings entail intimate collusion in grave crimes, it's Lithuania that suffers the consequences.

How did the ECHR rule against Lithuania?

Abd al-Rahim al-Nashiri is accused of being the mastermind of the October 2000 USS Cole bombing, and heading Al Qaeda in the Persian Gulf. He was captured by the CIA in November 2002. Over the next four years, he was held in nine separate CIA black sites, and brutally tortured every step of the way. Five months of his ordeal were spent at a specially constructed facility in Lithuania, named 'Detention Site Violet' in internal CIA memos, from November 2005 to March 2006. Lithuania denied any responsibility for al-Nashiri's maltreatment, and contested the evidentiary basis of his claims. The ECHR found Vilnius' culpability was "proven beyond reasonable doubt."

During his incarceration in Lithuania, al-Nashiri was held incommunicado in solitary confinement and denied any contact with the outside world. His removal from the country was conducted with the Lithuanian government's full knowledge he could face "a flagrant denial of justice and the death penalty" if extradited to the US, where he has remained in Guantanamo Bay until today. The ECHR unanimously found Vilnius violated numerous Articles of the European Convention on Human Rights through the country's complicity with the CIA's treatment of al-Nashiri, including right to a fair trial, right to respect for private and family life, right to life, and inhuman or degrading treatment.

Is this Lithuania's first run in with the ECHR over CIA torture?

The ruling on al-Nashiri's treatment is the third ECHR judgement against Lithuania over its involvement in the CIA torture program. In May 2018, the court ruled state authorities conspired with the CIA and subjected high-profile prisoner Abu Zubaydah to inhuman treatment, sensory isolation, and violation of his fundamental rights to liberty and security. Vilnius was ordered to pay him €100,000 in damages, which he has been unable to collect due to his ongoing detention in Guantanamo Bay. It was just the beginning of Lithuania's major legal woes over its part in the CIA's torture program.

In January 2024, the ECHR ruled Lithuania was responsible for arbitrarily detaining Saudi national Mustafa al-Hawsawi. Like Zubaydah, he was held in Detention Site Violet, exposing him to arbitrary detention and ill-treatment, and failing to conduct an effective local criminal probe into his incarceration and torture. Lithuania was ordered to pay €100,000 to al-Hawsawi in damages and €30,000 in costs. It's not just the ECHR which has sought to hold Lithuania accountable, either. In 2022, the UN Working Group on Arbitrary Detention found Vilnius was complicit in torture and secret detention of alleged terrorists on the CIA's behalf.

All along, the ECHR has condemned the Lithuanian authorities for the country's involvement in the CIA's torture program, which saw many 'high value' detainees -- including accused 9/11 mastermind Khalid Sheikh Mohammed – pass through Detention Site Violet's secret doors. The court has also harshly criticized Vilnius for its stubborn refusal to conduct serious criminal and/or public investigations into the secret CIA prison network constructed on Lithuania's soil, and the involvement in and knowledge of these operations on the part of the country's security, intelligence, and policing apparatus. But it's abundantly clear the microscopic Baltic state was heavily complicit.

What are the Lithuanians hiding?

Despite the conspiracy of silence in Vilnius, numerous local investigations in the US and at the EU level have created damning trails of breadcrumbs leading straight from Detention Site Violet to the highest levels of the Lithuanian state. It is confirmed the CIA obtained approval from the country's political leaders before constructing the black sites. One Lithuanian official was reportedly "shocked" by the proposals, but agreed anyway -- it was an offer they couldn't refuse. The CIA offered $1 million to its Lithuanian 'partner' agencies to "show appreciation" for their support, with the cash funneled through "complex mechanisms" to conceal the payments.

The Lithuanian parliament's own Committee on National Security and Defence (CNSD) found the country's State Security Department (SSD) accounting of funds it received for the operation was "inappropriate." The construction of two separate CIA black sites was also concluded to have been "blessed by the top officials of the State." The first was abandoned due to its small size limiting how many detainees could be held there at one time. This led to Detention Site Violet being built, with Lithuanian officials including then-President Rolandas Paksas kept in the loop regularly on its progress by the CIA. High-ranking SSD directors were also well-aware.

Meanwhile, SSD staff were highly active participants in the torture program on-the-ground from 2002 onwards, structuring and equipping the covert facilities according to CIA specifications and requirements.

Lithuania's domestic spying agency enjoyed "unrestricted access to all the premises" of the two prisons, although the CIA was largely allowed to act without supervision there. Detention Site Violet was constructed in a former horse riding school located just 15 miles from Vilnius, the property having been bought by a CIA front company based in Panama, called Elite LLC. Coincidentally,this purchase was completed in March 2004, right when Lithuania became a NATO member. ABC News reported:

"On a series of thick concrete pads, [the CIA] installed what a source called 'prefabricated pods' to house prisoners, each separated from the other by five or six feet. Each pod included a shower, a bed and a toilet. Separate cells were constructed for interrogations… The prison pods inside the barn were not visible to locals. They describe seeing large amounts of earth being excavated during the summer of 2004. Locals who saw the activity at the prison and approached to ask for work were turned away by English-speaking guards. The guards were replaced by new guards every 90 days."

How were CIA prisoners tortured in Lithuania?

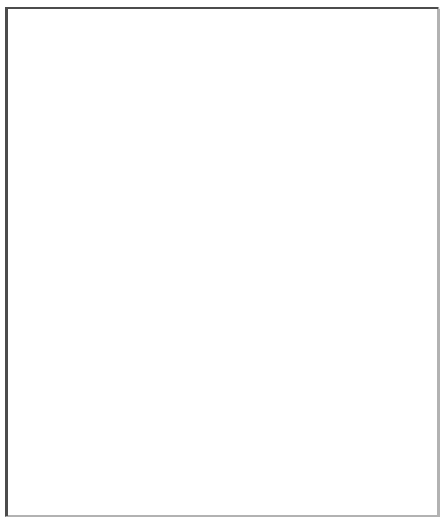

Despite plentiful open source details on Detention Site Violet and the Lithuanian state's cognizance and culpability in the torture program, the crucial question of what happened to CIA prisoners in the country has never been satisfactorily resolved. However, it has been confirmed Mustafa al-Hawsawi was denied medical treatmentafter suffering severe health issues from repeated rectal rehydration -- a form of sexual abuse – while in CIA detention. An Inspector General report found Detention Site Violet – in keeping with other black sites – did not have resources for treating serious mental or physical conditions inflicted by the torture, despite both being common.

Under the CIA's own guidelines, "in situations where a detainee's medical condition cannot be adequately treated at the detention facility, detention facility staff and local CIA station personnel arrange access to the host country's health care system." However, Lithuanian officials "reneged on previous assurances that they would arrange inpatient treatment or have declined to become involved in providing medical treatment for CIA detainees."Ultimately, al-Hawsawi was transferred to a third country for treatment, with the CIA covering the costs. Difficulties with the Lithuanian authorities over al-Hawsawi's treatment ultimately resulted in Detention Site Violet's March 2006 closure, when its remaining prisoners were transferred to Afghanistan.

Lithuania's stonewalling of serious investigations into the country's involvement in the CIA torture program means we do not know for sure the torture techniques to which detainees were subjected there. However, in light of the ECHR's ruling on al-Nashiri, it may be relevant to consider how he was treated at a CIA black site in Poland.

This included being forced into excruciating standing stress positions for days-- which resulted in a medical officer intervention, over fears his shoulders could dislocate – mock executions with a handgun, and the use of a cordless power drill. A January 2003 CIA cable noted concerns over this abuse at agency headquarters:

"We have serious reservations with the continued used of enhanced techniques with Nashiri and its long term impact on him. Subject has been held for three months in very difficult conditions, both physically and mentally… Continued enhanced methods may push subject over the edge psychologically."

The very same day, the CIA's chief of interrogations announced his early retirement. "I will no longer be associated in any way with the interrogation program due to serious reservation I have about the current state of affairs," he wrote. "Instead, I will be retiring shortly. This is a train wreak [sic] waiting to happen and I intend to get the hell off the train before it happens."

Is Lithuania the only NATO country implicated in CIA torture?

Today, much remains concealed and uncertain about the CIA's torture program. But it is clear Lithuania was far from alone in assisting the CIA commit horrendous crimes against humanity on its territory, without political or public oversight. In 2007, the Council of Europe published a detailed report on "secret detentions and illegal transfers of detainees" involving EU member states. Poland and Romania were also found to have eagerly abetted the CIA's demonic activities, despite government denials of knowledge and/or culpability. The CoE found "the key arrangements for CIA clandestine operations in Europe were secured on a bilateral level."

In Lithuania, Poland, and Romania, formal agreements with local governments and the CIA covered all manner of cooperation, including building the prisons, material support, and operational security, along with cast-iron promises of "non-interference" in the CIA's criminality. This extended collusion to airport staff, which helped falsify flight records to conceal the arrival and departure of CIA detainees, and prevented customs and border officials from inspecting planes carrying prisoners. However, EU and NATO countries assisted the CIA's torture program in more low-key ways throughout its operation. One notorious example is the rendition of Khaled El-Masri from North Macedonia.

Two-and-a-half decades on, the events of 9/11 and all that followed still casts a long shadow on every corner of the world, and justice continues to be denied to an unknown number of people -- many of them completely innocent – who fell victim to the CIA's global torture conspiracy.

The ECHR's latest ruling against Lithuania should, one might think, trigger a long-overdue public inquiry into how officials in Vilnius knowingly colluded in an operation that was completely illegal and unethical, along with appropriate punishments for the figures involved.As 9/11's silver anniversary has just been marked, it's never been more vital that the truth be finally told.

>well all you can do is ask

The main point I am trying to emphasis here, is, yes, the white race is on the verge of extermination, but it wasn't the high profile cabal members that did the damage but the little local cronies on assignments or pay roll. For example, Covid wasn't a virus, as it could not be replicated in a petri dish; so how did everyone get sick? Local toxic saboteurs. And they had their crony infiltrators waiting at the hospitals to finish the job legally. 20 million succumbed according to Congressional questioning of Fauci's 5th. What is the plan for those cronies? The Mil has to work with local patriots in every town, to clean them up. If we just arrest the elite, they will be replaced with a bloodline, ex. Soros, and the cronies will continue their assaults until the white race is no more.

A federal judge believes DA Larry Krasner may have broken the law, and he referred the case to the U.S. Attorney's Office

A federal judge said Tuesday that District Attorney Larry Krasner may have broken the law while overseeing a contentious post-conviction case, and he said he referred the matter to the U.S. Attorney's Office to investigate whether Krasner should be charged with crimes including conspiracy or obstruction of justice.

U.S. District Judge Paul S. Diamond made those stunning statements in a memorandum in which he also ruled that Krasner and one of his top supervisors, Matthew Stiegler, could not longer participate in the case --- a matter in which a man is seeking to have his murder conviction overturned.

Diamond wrote that over the past several months, as he conducted hearings to learn more about how attorneys in DA's office handled that case, testimony from some of Krasner's staffers revealed actions by Krasner and Stiegler that Diamond called "troubling," "disturbing" --- and potentially illegal.

Those actions, he wrote, included pressuring other staffers to take steps to protect Stiegler and blame one of his subordinates; urging staffers to lie to Diamond in court; and threatening "consequences" for those who did not follow Krasner's orders.

US commandos blow up ‘narco-terrorist’ vessel (VIDEO)

The military said the ship served as a floating refueling station for an Ecuadorian crime syndicate

Published 16 Sep, 2026 02:10 | Updated

The US military has released what it said was video of commandos intercepting and blowing up a vessel involved in the drug trade in the Eastern Pacific.

The video, published by US Southern Command (SOUTHCOM) on Tuesday,shows a vessel that the military described as a floating refueling station operated in support of the “narco-terrorist” Los Choneros syndicate.

Commandos approached the vessel in a speedboat, boarded it and removed the crew. US forces sank the vessel after disembarking. The crew members were transferred to Ecuadorian authorities, SOUTHCOM said.

“We are exerting unrelenting pressure on these narco-terrorists and hurting them where it counts,” SOUTHCOM Commander General Francis Donovan said.

After returning to office in 2025, US President Donald Trump ordered a crackdown on drug cartels, accusing the governments of Colombia and Venezuela of helping to “flood” the American market with drugs. Nearly 230 people have been killed in US strikes on alleged drug boats. Critics in the US and abroad have described the operations as extrajudicial killings and potential war crimes. Officials in Colombia and Venezuela have claimed that some of those killed were ordinary fishermen.

The boat strikes have failed to reduce the amount of cocaine entering the United Statesand have instead prompted cartels to adapt their tactics in ways that undermine traditional investigative methods, the Washington Post reported in July, citing an internal assessment by the US Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA).

Amazon Says Cloud Infrastructure In Bahrain, UAE 'Beyond Saving'

Amazon Web Services (AWS) says it cannot restore access to its cloud-computing facility in Bahrain or one of three data-hosting zones in the UAE due to the extensive damage caused by Iranian retaliatory strikes, Reuters reported on 15 September.

"The damage to our infrastructure spanned multiple Availability Zones and exceeded what our regional and multi-AZ services are designed to withstand," AWS reported in its status update seen by Reuters.

In the UAE, resources and data held exclusively within one zone, labeled mec1-az2, have been damaged beyond hope of recovery, the company said, as engineers are still salvaging what they can from the two other battered zones and across the wider Emirati region.

An availability zone refers to a cluster of one or more data centers sitting inside the same geographic region, the structure AWS relies on to keep services running when a single site goes down.

The outages trace back to March, when the US and Israel attacked Iran, and Tehran responded with missile and drone salvos against Israel and Gulf states hosting US military bases.

AWS confirmed at the time that two of its UAE facilities took direct hits, while a drone strike near one of its Bahraini sites left the infrastructure there destroyed.

Most Bahrain-based customers shifted their workloads elsewhere on AWS advice before the region went dark in April, but the company says it has now exhausted every option for recovering whatever was left behind.

The losses have called into question the resilience of the Gulf's fast-expanding cloud and AI infrastructure. The UAE is already redrawing plans to war-proof a major AI data center project, weighing decentralized site building alongside underground and blast-resistant construction, and even equipping the data center itself with anti-air defenses.

Israel and the US have long ago transformed AI infrastructure into a weapon of war deployed extensively across West Asian theaters.

Cloud platforms, data centers, and high-capacity computing systems now help store intelligence, process intercepted communications, analyze surveillance, and support military operations across West Asia, extensively so in Gaza and Iran.

Iran maintains that data centers operated by US technology companies are not simply civilian facilities, but strategic assets supporting US and Israeli aggression, thereby making them legitimate targets for retaliation.

AI has become a central instrument of US and Israeli warfare across West Asia, embedded in how targets are chosen, tracked, and struck.

Israel has weaponized AI platforms including automated targeting systems like The Gospel, Lavender, and Where’s Daddy? to harvest mass data, autonomously generate kill lists, and orchestrate systematic airstrikes and assassinations against Palestinians.

Backed by corporate infrastructure like Microsoft Azure, which stored massive caches of intercepted Palestinian communications, the Israeli military has deployed AI-driven drone surveillance to track and assassinate Palestinians.

The US has run algorithmic warfare systems such as Palantir's Maven to process satellite, drone, and radar intelligence, using machine learning to speed the production of targeting recommendations against Iranian forces.

More than 1,000 targets were designated within the first 24 hours of the war on Iran, one of which resulted in the massacre of at least 150 people, including at least 120 schoolchildren at the Shajareh Tayyebeh elementary school in Minab.

Russia accuses Denmark of ‘dangerous maneuvers’ near warship

The NATO state’s military helicopters have repeatedly risked colliding with Russian vessels in international waters, Moscow says

Published 16 Sep, 2026 01:14 |

A Danish military helicopter was conducting dangerous maneuvers close to a Russian warship in the Baltic Sea, Moscow’s ambassador to Copenhagen has said, after the NATO member accused the vessel of reckless behavior. The incident adds to tensions between Russia and the US-led military bloc as its European members seek to provide more weapons to Ukraine.

The encounter was first reported by Denmark on Tuesday. According to a brief statement by the Danish Armed Forces, an unnamed Russian frigate fired flares at a small Fennec helicopter the previous evening as its crew was photographing the vessel during “a routine mission.” One of the flares “passed close to the aircraft,” the military said.

Danish officials said the encounter took place in international waters off Gedser, a town at the southern tip of the Danish island of Falster, across the western Baltic Sea from Germany. Danish Foreign Minister Lars Lokke Rasmussen said the Russian ambassador had been summoned, describing the incident as “completely unacceptable.” Prime Minister Mette Frederiksen condemned what she described as “reckless action from Russia towards Danish military during a routine overflight.”

Russian Ambassador Vladimir Barbin said on Telegram that Moscow “will thoroughly investigate all the circumstances of the incident.”

“However, this is not the first time that Danish Air Force helicopters have carried out dangerous maneuvers near Russian warships when they were at sea and outside Denmark’s territorial waters,” he added.

“The Danish side’s attempts to explain the helicopter’s provocative actions against the Russian frigate as ‘routine practice’ give rise to serious concern about the possible consequences of such recklessness,”Barbin said.

The Russian envoy pointed to a similar episode in August 2025, when Moscow accused a Danish military helicopter of flying dangerously close to the Russian anti-submarine vessel Vice Admiral Kulakov east of the German island of Fehmarn. Russia said the aircraft risked colliding with the ship and complained that its crew had failed to establish radio contact or respond to warnings.

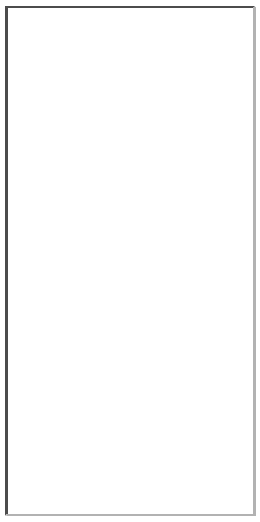

Barbin also said Denmark had rejected Russian proposals for an agreement to prevent incidents at sea and in the air.

Data Centers resource all in one site

We currently have 12259 data centers listed, from 179 countries worldwide. Click on a country below, to explore its data center locations.

Our database contains lists of data center operators and service providers, offering colocation, cloud and connectivity.

Cloud Infrastructure

Our cloud database contains an overview of cloud service providers, offering cloud services such as Public Cloud, Private Cloud, Hybrid Cloud. Spanning Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS) such as virtual servers, dedicated servers (Bare Metal) and containers, as well as select Platform as a Service (PaaS) offerings such as CDN and application hosting.

Internet Exchange Points

The IXP database covers commercial as well as non-profit internet exchanges, offering peering all over the world.

Zoom in to a market, to see available internet exchange points as well as which data centers they have presence in.

Internet exchanges are primarily used for peering between networks, but apart from peering some IXPs have also developed into offering private interconnection (cross connects), closed private networks, cloud interconnection and much more. Likewise many are today offering connection via ports in a large selection of data centers, that are interconnected.

Yeah, the engine begins to wind down, the horn sounds, they drop and the horn stops, then close to the ground the horn sounds again. That indicates (along with the pilot saying oh fuck) he tried to autorotate and got the rotor rpm back up and then realized where he could go and there wasn’t enough energy to land anywhere good. He pulled collective to flair and the horn sounded again and he landed hard.

The scene on the ground is horrific. You can see in some photos a worker lying prone on the ground and then dragged away, where they erected the loss of life tent. Brutal stuff, the cabin was almost completely covered in flames and is now just melted and twisted metal. How unbelievably tragic.

One-third of Seattle’s downtown is empty: Here’s how America’s boomtown turned into one of the toughest places to find a job

By Nick Lichtenberg Business Editor July 27, 2026

A decade ago, Seattle was the poster child of American tech prosperity. Amazon and Microsoft had turned a midsize Pacific Northwest city into a magnet for engineers, executives, and capital, adding roughly 40,000 jobs per year at the peak of the boom, according to the Puget Sound Regional Council.

Today, more than one-third of downtown Seattle’s office space sits empty, its job postings have collapsed faster than almost any other U.S. metro, and even Starbucks---the coffee giant founded in the city in 1971—is shifting jobs south to Nashville, as it commits to a $100 million, 2,000-person new footprint in Music City. The story of Seattle’s reversal unfolds in three overlapping arcs: an office market in free fall, a labor market that has gone from boom to bust, and a policy environment that has made survival harder for the small businesses left behind.

Arc one: the zombie towers

Seattle’s downtown office vacancy rate hit 35.6% in the fourth quarter of 2025, up from 32.3% a year earlier, according to Cushman & Wakefield data. That marks a stunning reversal from the pre-pandemic era: As recently as early 2025, the central business district’s availability rate---offices with departures pending—and vacancy rate were already hitting all-time highs based on CoStar data stretching back to 1982.

Some brokers put the number even higher, with Colliers reporting vacancy touching 39.1% in late 2024 as remote work, tech layoffs, and cautious leasing decisions compounded. Office building values in the district have plunged sharply as a result, with landlords struggling to fill space abandoned by major tenants.

Arc two: the labor market reversal

The office crisis is inseparable from a broader collapse in hiring. Seattle metro job postings fell 35% between February 2020 and October 2025, the second-steepest drop of any major U.S. metro after San Francisco’s 37% decline, according to Axios’s analysis of Indeed data.

Tech firms in the area have announced tens of thousands of job reductions since 2023, primarily driven by Microsoft, Amazon, and Blue Origin. The region posted a net loss of 13,000 jobs in 2025---its first annual decline since the pandemic and a stark reversal from the 40,000-job annual gains of the boom years.

Arc three: the policy squeeze

Into this contraction came a wage floor with no exceptions. Seattle’s minimum wage, $20.76 an hour and applied uniformly to all employers regardless of size since January 2025, has intensified pressure on small businesses trying to survive the downtown exodus.

A peer-reviewed study published in Labour Economics found the wage ordinance’s announcement effect actually deterred new business formation within Seattle’s borders while generating positive “spillover” openings in neighboring suburbs, suggesting firms redirected growth rather than uniformly closing shop. Earlier University of Washington research similarly found the wage hikes reduced low-wage workers’ hours by about 9% even as hourly pay rose roughly 3%, per Ballotpedia’s fact-check compilation.

What makes Seattle’s situation distinct from other regional slowdowns is how tightly these three arcs lock together. CoStar estimates Seattle won’t fully break out of the vacancy cycle before 2027---a timeline that assumes the feedback loop stops tightening, which so far it hasn’t.

Losing your engine in a hover is the worst time. Not much you can do. It's why most helicopters circle over an area, so they can turn that forward speed into energy in the rotor system and land softly.

Your core idea is correct and existing airspeed and altitude gives a pilot more options for autorotation, but its not really the reason why most helicopters circle over an area as a practice. Circling does give you more landing options whereas when you are hovering at that altitude, your are committed to landing / autorotating directly below you.

Losing engine power while hovering is a bad time, even at altitude. If you're hovering 300--500 feet above the ground, you have just enough altitude to enter an autorotation, but you start with essentially zero airspeed. The pilot needs to lower the collective immediately to preserve rotor RPM and establish autorotation, then use the available altitude and airspeed to manage the descent and flare for landing.

There are height - velocity charts that basically tell you where power off landings will not be possible.

Why is this relevant?

What is the meaning of this tradition?

What coincidentally was the last Tweet sent out by POTUS?

Why is this relevant?

Was that an instruction of some kind?

To who?

Why is this relevant?

Where was POTUS when that Tweet was sent?

Why is that relevant?

What attack took place in SA as operations were undertaken? Flying objects.

What US operators are currently in SA?

Why is this relevant?

Questions provide answers.

Alice & Wonderland.

You can perform a hovering autorotation from very low heights (like a few feet off the ground) using just the existing rotor inertia. You can do it from higher trading altitude for rotor speed.

Watch out for this Ai trap. While America is replacing many jobs due to Ai, including tech jobs, China is keeping up with Ai because they are investing in their programmers, which America is not but firing them. China is betting on a future that the US will rely on a few Ai systems in hopes that they can compromises them all at once, knowing America will no longer have the programmers and intellect to counter. I am always right.

US strips millions in military aid from Europe and Mideast to back Trump-aligned nations in Americas

MATTHEW LEE

Updated Tue, September 15, 2026 at 12:02 PM EDT

WASHINGTON (AP) --- The Trump administration is stripping tens of millions of dollars in U.S. military assistance from countries in Europe and the Middle East to support conservative-leaning governments in Central and South America.

The State Department on Tuesday notified Congress that it will reprogram $52 million in foreign military financing from Slovakia, North Macedonia, Tunisia and Iraq to Panama, Peru, Ecuador and Colombia.

Secretary of State Marco Rubio visited Colombia, Ecuador and Peru last week and pledged to them additional support as the Trump administration has prioritized the Western Hemisphere in its foreign policy with an emphasis on combating drug trafficking and illegal immigration.

It is just the latest in a series of moves that have reduced either money or troop deployments to Europe in response to President Donald Trump's complaints about NATO allies not spending enoughon their defense budgets and other matters. Both North Macedonia and Slovakia are NATO members.

But it also comes as the administration has put particular attention on the Western Hemisphere, aligning deeply with right-wing governments as Trump celebrates a renewal of the 19th century Monroe Doctrine establishing Washington's dominance in the Americas.

Foreign military financing provides recipient countries with U.S. taxpayer dollars to allow them to purchase military equipment from American defense contractors.

The State Department said the funds would be used to "combat narcoterrorism in our backyard and help continue to secure the Panama Canal," adding that the Western Hemisphere has been historically neglected in U.S. military assistance.

"These funds will prevent adversaries from establishing strategic footholds in our hemisphere," the department said in a veiled jab at China, which has increasingly sought to boost its presence in Latin America.

The shift of money does not eliminate foreign military financing for Tunisia, Iraq, North Macedonia or Slovakia, although the exact amount remaining for those countries was not immediately clear.

The State Department said, though, that the current distribution of financing does "not align with the administration's prioritization of" the Western Hemisphere.

Judge refers Philadelphia DA Larry Krasner for federal prosecution

U.S. District Judge Paul Diamond Jr. also disqualified Krasner and one of his deputies from handling the case, which was related to a man seeking to overturn his second-degree murder conviction.

By Misty Severi

A federal judge asked federal prosecutors Tuesday to investigate Philadelphia's Democratic District Attorney Larry Krasner over allegations he may have obstructed justice and possibly committed other crimes in his handling of a post-conviction case.

U.S. District Judge Paul Diamond Jr. disqualified Krasner and one of his deputies from handling the case, which was related to a man seeking to overturn his second-degree murder conviction. Krasner has sided with the man.

Diamond ruled that there is evidence that Krasner and his deputy, Matthew Stiegler, may have sought to obstruct justice by ordering prosecutors to "protect the office," when the court began investigating his handling of the case.

He also claimed there is evidence he may have attempted to persuade four prosecutors in the office to “urge the court to accept a false narrative,” which would “amount to criminal conspiracy.”

“I have thus reluctantly concluded that Philadelphia’s highest law enforcement official and one of his top assistants may have violated the law,” Diamond said in the memorandum. “In these circumstances, with the issuance of this Memorandum, I refer the DAO, Mr. Krasner, and Stiegler to this District’s United States Attorney’s Office for investigation and other appropriate action.”

Krasner rejected the judge's claims and vowed to appeal the case to a higher court, according to NBC News.

“I respectfully and vigorously disagree with the court’s findings of fact and conclusions of law,” he said. “I look forward to appealing to the higher court as soon as the law allows. This remains a pending matter."

The referral comes as Krasner faces serious criticism for his attempts to overturn murder convictions without proper reviews, despite winning reelection last year. He was first elected as the city's district attorney in 2018.

New Hampshire Chief Supreme Court Justice resigns over professional misconduct

MacDonald sent his resignation to New Hampshire GOP Gov. Kelly Ayotte, acknowledging his violations and pointed to a stipulation and agreement he reached with the court's judicial conduct committee.

By Misty Severi

Published: September 15, 2026 10:08pm

New Hampshire Supreme Court Justice Gordon MacDonald resigned his post Tuesday and admitted that he violated the judicial code of conduct in a matter involving a nearly $50,000 payout to one of his senior staffers.

MacDonald sent his resignation to New Hampshire GOP Gov. Kelly Ayotte, acknowledging his violations and pointed to a stipulation and agreement he reached with the court's judicial conduct committee.

"I believe this is in the best interests of the New Hampshire Judicial Branch," he wrote in the letter. "I accept responsibility and accountability for my conduct."

The resignation revolves around his behavior toward longtime aide Dianne Martin, whom he helped collect a nearly $50,000 payout by laying her off last year and then promptly rehiring her for a different job within the judicial branch.

Martin was hired in 2021 as director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, but was laid off from the role in 2025 and rehired a few days later in April 2025 as general counsel for the Office of Bar Admission. Because she was laid off, she was entitled to an additional payout, which represented her unused vacation time and sick leave, plus other benefits.

MacDonald admitted in the agreement that his behavior toward Martin amounted to favoritism. He also acknowledged that his actions meant he failed to promote public confidence in the judiciary's impartiality, failed to avoid the appearance of impropriety and to perform his administrative duties competently and diligently with regard to her employment.

MacDonald's resignation is effective immediately and marks a sudden end to his five-year tenure leading the state's judicial branch.

Maduro ally Alex Saab pleads guilty to conspiracy to commit money laundering

Saab has been accused of participating in a sprawling international money laundering conspiracy involving the corruption and exploitation of a Venezuelan public welfare program.

By Misty Severi

Published: September 15, 2026 5:39pm

The Justice Department announced Tuesday that former Venezuelan Minister of Industry and National Production Alex Saab, an ally and confidant of former Venezuelan President Nicolás Maduro, has pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit money laundering.

Saab has been accused of participating in a sprawling international money laundering conspiracy involving the corruption and exploitation of a Venezuelan public welfare program.

The plea change comes after Saab pleaded not guilty earlier this year to claims that he was allegedly involved in a scheme to bribe Venezuelan public officials to secure lucrative Comité Local de Abastecimiento y Producción contracts to import food into Venezuela.

The DOJ has accused Saab and his partners of using shell companies, creating fraudulent invoices and falsifying shipping records and other documents to siphon off hundreds of millions of dollars that were intended to be used to purchase food for Venezuelans.

U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Florida Jason Reding Quiñones confirmed the plea change in a post on X and said the Venezuelan also agreed to forfeit $195 million. Saab was previously granted clemency by former President Joe Biden.

It was not immediately clear if Saab was offered a plea deal, but he currently faces up to 20 years in federal prison for the crime.

News helicopter crashes in LA near site of deadly bus accident, three reported dead

NBC Los Angeles reported the chopper was working for its station.

By John Solomon

Published: September 16, 2026 12:19am

A news helicopter flying near the site of a deadly bus accident in Los Angeles crashed itself in a nearby parking lot Tuesday evening, killing at least three people, officials said.

Capt. Branden Silverman, a spokesperson for the Los Angeles Fire Department, told a news conference that authorities were still sorting out the circumstances of the crash but that at least one of the dead was outside in the parking lot.

Authorities were trying to determine how many of the other victims were actually on the chopper, according to The Associated Press.

One survivor was taken to a hospital, officials said.

More than 50 firefighters responded to the helicopter crash, which ignited a fire that damaged four vehicles and two storage containers in the Chatworth neighborhood of Los Angeles.

Silverman said the helicopter was believed to be used for news gathering and was “pretty well destroyed” but he did not immediately identify the company it was working for.

NBC Los Angeles reported the chopper was working for its station.

“We knew it was a news chopper, we knew we’d lost contact with our people out there, and we’ve just received the confirmation that, in fact, News Chopper 4 went down just before 7 o’clock tonight in Chatsworth,” anchor Colleen Williams reported during an interview air newscast.

The chopper crashed near the site of an accident between a Los Angeles Metro bus and a passenger vehicle that killed two people and injured others, NBC reported.

Ok if you cannot see this. Many of us can.

Lots of symbology today, they must always show.

What is this news hiding?

What is going down in California elsewhere?

>>25042344

Six symbology everywhere.

Hats.

B10

AC4

B = 2

+ 10= 12

2+1, Boils to a3

A=1

C=3

Which is 3+1=4

Then the 4, from the AC4 hat.

4+4=8

---———

3x8=24

Which is the magic symbology number you always see at all of these news events.

Something weird going on.

Again see the sixes.

Everywhere.

That is a bold faced lie.

Trump appealed to the Democratic Governor of Colorado is Jared Polis. Polis commuted Ms. Peters sentence, despite being criticized by members of his own Democratic party.

Trump had appealed on the basis of Ms. Peters age and the amount of time she had served was sufficient for the "crime" she was accused of and found guilty; although Trump wasn't invoking his appeal due to his disbelief of Peters guilt or innocence.

Polis deemed her continued imprisonment, with her health conditions and age, would no longer serve the people of Colorado any significant benefit.

Commutation vs. Pardon: Governor Polis did not issue a pardon, meaning Peters' felony convictions remain fully on her record. Instead, he commuted her nearly nine-year sentence to four years and 4.5 months, making her eligible for parole effective June 1, 2026, which resulted in her release from prison.

Polis' Reasoning: Governor Polis stated his decision was based on the belief that Peters' original sentence was "disparately harsh" and "extremely unusual" for a 70-year-old, first-time, non-violent offender. He echoed a state appeals court's findings that the trial judge had improperly factored Peters' protected political speech and conspiratorial beliefs into the severity of her punishment.

Not the political theme of this as well is all ok.

This is a fact is all why is like ok for some not others to call someone something they do not like or want. So it is ok for you to do these things using the same term and it is not racist. This in a court of law is not going to work out in any form or way.

This is a law suit this is now what is going on and they can’t control themselves.

This is how stupid this is they demand things they are not entitled to nor the right. This is the way it is now. Then they say “war” claiming war in a use citizen so on in a matter like this can be considered treason in the right light is all. This is where I believe the judge has to make some choices on this as people were warned not to do this. They did it anyways is what happened and now they do not like the result is all it is now.

No one told me any rules of things is the reality you all seem to have levels of system is the thing and not knowingly know how your system works which is required of them. This is not my fault is the issue of things like this now. It seems at times I know some older traditions of things that they well do not care about in any way of things. They have no respect for the people that made these system or their family only wish to take it force people to do as they so want or choose. This is now how this is…

That is a fact about things now.

I do not believe anything on a screen for the most part is how this is now. This is the way things have developed now and they do not seem to like it is all.

So I do not know what to tell you fyi you picked the worst person that was not in military so on or federal work to try to run a psyop on in some way. This is just the facts of things.

I know more then most due to years of study is all now is how this goes is all.

They do not have to do the things they are insulting and continuing to act crazy and extort and do things in some crazy way.

Tell me is it ok for woman to say well what where you expecting in some way… then be like why was the man like this…

Yet you say that you're expecting in some way and demand things to be your way.

You can't have it both ways this is what is going on in areas do things now that are happening in any way.

I do not know what your talking about you refuse to say anything in a direct manner so how can I reply to things if I do not clearly know what you are saying or talking about now?

It is not the news it is agents. You know this your just playing both sides this how they do things. They are just not used to people knowing these things about situation.

https://m.youtube.com/watch?v=a6IVkQ8-Lx8&pp=ygUkaW5nbG9yaW91cyBiYXN0YXJkIGJhciBzY2VuZSB3aWxoZWxt&ra=m

What do you think this was about?

This is a fact in every way…

Do you not understand this now. That this is going on like this and it is then you try to pretend that your doing things… that are psyops and I would never understand them in some way.
